

Good News from the CDP

March 25, 2013

Dear Colleagues,

As you may know, I have recently joined the Cultural Data Project as President and CEO. I am thrilled to join with our new national board of directors in announcing that, thanks to your partnership, support, and interest, we are taking the next important step in bringing the CDP's powerful resources to the national arts and cultural sector.

As of April, the CDP will begin operations as an independent nonprofit dedicated to strengthening the arts and cultural sector through the power of good data. As part of that transition, the CDP will move to a new headquarters, fittingly located just off Philadelphia's Independence Mall. Starting April 1, you'll be able to visit, call, or reach us at our new address:

Cultural Data Project
400 Market Street, Suite 600
Philadelphia, PA 19106
Phone: 215-383-0700

Our staff's email addresses will also change. Please use our current email names (first initial and last name)@culturaldata.org. We'll send you another message once these new email addresses go into effect.

Extended Help Desk hours & national number

To help the arts and cultural community get the most out of the CDP, we are extending our Help Desk hours, and moving to one national Help Desk number. Please remind your constituents and grantees that no question is too big or too small, and that we're always happy to help.

P.S. We will be welcoming the great (big!) state of Texas this summer. More news to come!
